

Vodafone's first tablets premiere at the IFA show Berlin

- Two tablets with 7 and 10 inch displays to be launched in autumn

Düsseldorf/Berlin, 1 September 2011. Vodafone Germany is launching two Vodafone-branded tablets at the 2011 IFA consumer electronics fair in Berlin. The Vodafone Smart Tab will be available in a 7 and 10 inch version. The device will be rolled out in the autumn.

Both tablets come with Google Android 3.2 (Honeycomb) installed. A Qualcomm 1.2 GHz dual-core processor offering 1 GB of RAM guarantees all-round fast performance. 16 GB internal memory provides plenty of space to store photos, videos and documents, and it can be expanded to 32 GB with a MicroSD card.

Vodafone Germany's HSDPA turbo mobile broadband service can download websites and data via the efficient Vodafone network at rates of up to 14.4 mbps, with a maximum upload speed of 5.76 mbps. The tablets also have an integrated WLAN interface.

The Vodafone Smart Tab 7 weighs 391 grams, is 11.4 millimetres slim and fits in almost any jacket pocket. The Vodafone Smart Tab 10's 10 inch display provides even more space for multimedia applications. Both tablets are additionally equipped with 5 megapixel cameras on the back and 2 megapixel cameras on the front. Their displays both have 1280 x 800 pixel resolutions. The Vodafone Smart Tabs are scheduled to go on sale at retail outlets in Germany at the end of November. Pricing will be announced closer to the time.
