

Curriculum Vitae

Dr Eric Kuisch

Chief Technology Officer

Dr Eric Kuisch (born 1965) was appointed as Vodafone Germany's Chief Technology Officer in October 2013.

Between 2009 and joining Vodafone he was General Manager Network Services at telecommunications service provider KPN, with responsibility for mobile and fixed line operations and development.

Dutch-born Kuisch held various management positions at KPN from 1991 onwards, including Director IT Operations, Director Business Process Management and Senior Vice President Customer Service & Operations. In the latter function he drove the development of integrated products and services and ICT solutions for enterprise customers. The broadly experienced management executive started out his career in KPN's Dutch R&D division.

Kuisch has a PhD in mathematics from the University of Amsterdam. He is married with three children.